About Työllisyysrahasto

Employment Fund collects unemployment insurance contributions from both employers and employees. These contributions finance unemployment security paid during temporary lay-offs and periods of unemployment, as well as earnings-related pension coverage accrued during periods when earnings-related unemployment allowance is received. In addition, we finance pay security and transition security for people aged over 55, and we act as experts in the coordination of compensation paid in employment termination disputes and unemployment allowances received by employees.
