Administer is aiming for a significant market share in financial and payroll management, related solutions and consultancy business. The consultancy services are mainly connected with financial management, payroll administration and HR services. The main areas are consultancy services consisting of financial management, such as CFO and controller services.

Mikko Vahtera, an experienced specialist who knows the field inside out, became the new head of Administer's consultancy business in April. Vahtera is also a member of the Group management team. Before his new position at Administer, Vahtera worked in a similar role at Talenom. Vahtera's other previous roles include Manager at Danske Bank, and he has more than 10 years of experience in managerial work.

"Administer has an excellent brand. For example, group company Silta is known for its salary management expertise throughout Finland. The Group is growing at an impressive pace, investing strongly in new business development and it has highly professional personnel. In my view, consultancy business plays a key role in the Finnish business sector, and demand for it is increasing," says Mikko Vahtera. "The most important thing is to keep the focus firmly on understanding our customers and creating added value and benefit for them. I am looking forward to rolling up my sleeves and developing new things with my team."

"We will continue on our journey of robust growth through acquisitions and business development. Mikko will play an important role in strengthening our consultancy business. I would like to welcome him warmly to Administer," says Peter Aho, CEO.
